4.10: More Structure: Packages and Nested Classes

Java supports two more features that help you write structured code.

1. Classes can be assembled into groups called packages.
2. Classes can nest inside one another.

Both of these features let you control the way classes interact.